

HISTORY (HIST)

HIST 101 Western Civilization to 1500 (3 credits)

A survey of the major economics, intellectual, political, social, geographical and religious developments from beginning of civilization through the Persian, Greek, and Roman Empires ending with the Middle Ages.

HIST 102 Western Civilization Since 1500 (3 credits)

A survey of the major economic, intellectual, political, and social developments in Europe from the Renaissance to recent times.

HIST 103 American History to 1865 (3 credits)

An economic, intellectual, political and social survey of our nation including its colonial origins, the Revolution, the early growth of the nation, the issue of sectionalism, and the Civil War.

HIST 104 American History Since 1865 (3 credits)

An economic, intellectual, political and social survey of our nation since the Civil War period including the areas of reconstruction, industrialization and our increasing involvement in global responsibilities.

HIST 107 Native American History I (3 credits)

This course is an introduction to Native American history from before the European colonization through the 1760's. This course is an introduction to Native American history from before the European colonization through the 1760's.

HIST 108 Native American History II (3 credits)

This course is an introduction to Native American history from the era of the American Revolution through the 1920's.

HIST 109 Native American History III (3 credits)

This course is an introduction to Native American history from the era of the Indian Reorganization Act through to the present.

HIST 211 World Civilizations to 1500 (3 credits)

An overview of the development of the world's major civilizations from earliest times to 1500. The major focus is on how developments in societies in the Americas, the West, China, India, southwest Asia, and Africa developed and influenced each other.

HIST 212 World Civilizations Since 1500 (3 credits)

This is a continuation of HIST 211 and examines the development of societies in and around the world since the Reformation. This course emphasizes the interactions of a globalized and interconnected world from this time to the present.